This Month's focus at the LA Computer Fair is on TECHNOLOGY - in Every Format....

Come and meet the Producer, Developer, Costumed Characters, and Actors of the Sci-Fi Trilogy:

AURUILLIUM SAGA!

Jon Barton, the Producer of Aurillium and real Armed Forces Member - has collaborated for authenticity on TV Programs, Movies, and Games like Gears of War.

The Aurillium Effect is a story of a Marine Corps special operations unit with a sci-fi / horror theme written in strict military verbiage, doctrine, and tactics, taking place in the near future.

We start the story with a cry for help from a beautiful NEWS reporter trapped behind enemy lines in Chinese occupied Iran.

The Marines deploy to the border of KUR, (Kuwaiti Unified Republic formally Iraq), and Iran, and venture into occupied territory. Once on the ground the unit rescues the reporter and her camera crew, but realizes all is not what it seems as they discover glitches in their technology and weapon systems.

The Marines stumble on an abandoned secret military research center that was creating a nanotech virus called "Emergent", designed to heal battlefield injuries. The emergent virus gives the host added strength, improved sight, night vision, and healing ability, however, what they learn is that once the Emergent Virus reaches large numbers in the human body, it becomes self aware, and attempts a take-over of the host's personality. The take-over is called The Aurillium Effect. Once the Aurillium takes over, the host is consumed with the needs of the nanotech's base programming; Feed, Replicate, Stay Alive.

The team starts to get systematically killed and harvested by a group of former Army Delta Force operators that were being used as the experimental test group. The aurillium has altered their personalities and bodies to become perfect hunters that feed on human flesh. They name these creatures "Silhouettes".

The story follows the actions of the Marine Commander on the ground, Captain Alan Dracen, and the war hero sniper with a dark past, Jayden Callahan. As Dracen fights the Silhouettes in an Iranian town where all the townspeople have become infected, Callahan follows clues to the hive where he discovers how to kill the creatures. Dracen and the remaining members of his team fight the Silhouettes using heavy weaponry and cunning skill until Callahan rejoins them and turns the tide of the battle.

The team escapes, and then launches an orbital strike on the area destroying the virus.

Or so they think . . .

We also will feature a Technology Showcase!

Diego Cardenas, the "Computer Guy" from univision.com (mipagina social networking blog) (CompuHombre) will keep us informed on the latest Hi-Tech Gadgets and Toys... What's Hot and What's Not!

Greg Rostami of Rostami Gadgets is world renown for his ingenuity - the integrity of his products - and his cutting edge Technology - He is a showman in his own right making him one of our favorite seminar speakers....

and Back by POPULAR DEMAND -- Joseph Salazar of Net Wiz Computers! Not only will he help us all tweak our computers with an updated version of Optimizations - but also Clue us in - to the most AWESOME Utilities!!!

Don't be left out -- Join us at the LA Computer Fair on May 16-17, 2009!!!
